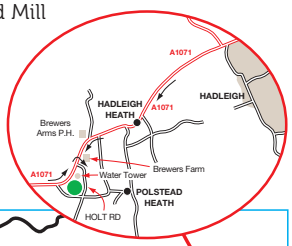
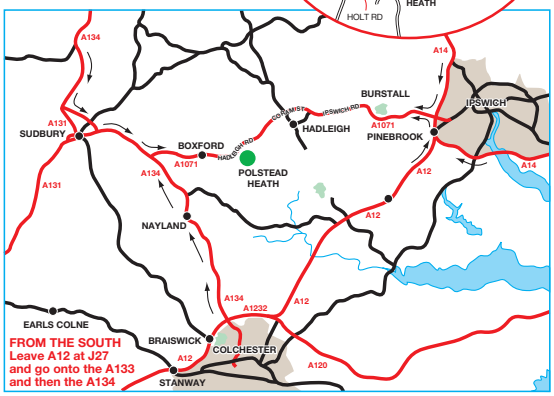
Relax in the Suffolk countryside

Our lovely Polstead Club Site is on the edge of a conservation area with plenty of activities, as well as opportunities to enjoy the beautiful Suffolk countryside.

The site takes its name from a pretty village a mile away, which features a large pond separated from the village green by a steep hill. There is an excellent network of footpaths around the village, many of which take in the area's ancient woodland and County Wildlife Sites.




Other local attractions include the quaint villages of Boxford and Kersey, as well as the stunning guildhall and church at Lavenham. Constable country, including Flatford Mill and Dedham, is within a short drive, as is Long Melford – home to a number of antique shops and the location for TV's Lovejoy.
