The approach surface is a tarmac road with speed bumps.

The site is well signed on the approach to Pevensey Village (follow brown camping signs). Do not follow your Sat Nav to Normans Bay, as it will direct you down Sluice Lane, this is very narrow lane with very few passing points.

Arrival surface is level tarmac, with painted arrows showing the direction to take around the car park. There is a painted arrival line clear to see and a signpost for reception.

There is an automatic barrier with a keypad number code. When the barriers are locked there is a car park in front of reception outside of the barriers, and there is pedestrian access to the site. No further visitor parking is available on site.

The bus stop is next to a small kiosk shop, and there is one either side of the road. The bus that runs on this route is the 8 service but takes a more scenic route. The bus stops for Eastbourne and Hastings are both located in Pevensey Bay and are 1.5 miles from the site as you exit the site and turn right. In both cases the bus route is the 99 service, for Eastbourne the bus stop is in front of St Wilfred's Church. For Hastings the bus stop is in front of the library before the traffic lights.

There is a railway station just over 0.5 miles from the site as you turn left. There is no footpath along the road. You can walk on the pebble beach then cut down to the train station. As it is a small "halt" station, there is no car park.
